Summary report on

"EMERGENCY ROOM MANAGEMENT OF POLYTRAUMA CASES"

Date: 22.10.2022

Unlike many chronic diseases that occur later in a person's life, trauma has a disproportionate impact on society's young and middle-aged people. Victims of severe trauma are often previously healthy people who, sometimes through no fault of their own, become suddenly and gravely ill. With intensive and coordinated care, patients can often be brought back from the brink of death. Emergency medicine physicians are often integral to this system, providing the required care for the patient to thrive after initial survival. This course exposes students to the measures to be taken in an emergency room by the healthcare physicians for timely management and saving the lives of individuals.

Dr B Venkata Ramana is serving as the Professor and Head Department of Orthopaedics, MRMCW, and was instrumental in conducting the course for the young physicians. He served as the principal resource person of the course. He was supported in practical demonstrations by Dr K Ravindra Kumar, Professor and Head of the Department of Emergency Medicine at MRMCW. Dr Shaik Ajaz has a vast experience in management of trauma cases and is serving as Professor in the Department of Orthopaedics in the institute.
