Summary report on
“FIRST AID”

First aid is the first and immediate assistance given to any person with either a minor or serious illness or injury, with care provided to preserve life, prevent the condition from worsening, or to promote recovery until medical services arrive. In some cases, first aid consists of the initial support provided to someone in the middle of a medical emergency. This support might help them survive until professional help arrives. In other cases, first aid consists of the care provided to someone with a minor injury. For example, first aid is often all that's needed to treat minor burns, cuts, and insect stings. Giving first aid and performing CPR exercises has to be learnt by the medical professionals in their day-to-day practice.

Resource persons:

Dr K. Radha Ramana Murthy is working as the Professor and Head in the Department of Emergency Medicine, and served as the key resource person for the programme. He was supported in all practical demonstrations by Dr R Nagamani, Professor and HOD of General Medicine and Dr V Ashok Kumar, working as Professor in the Department of General Surgery in the institute.
